Mansfield Legion Banquet.

On Tuesday evening, December 19th, 1922 the Clarence King Post, 128 of Mansfield, Mo., held its 3rd. annual banquet at the O. T. Cafe at 8:00 o'clock.

Ray J. Brown, Commander of the Post was toastmaster; and, about 35 members and their lady friends were present. The Seymour Harmony Flends composed of Messrs. Chas. H. White, Bartone; Joe Failair. Base; Fred Wommack, 2nd Tenor; and, Frank Bennett, 1st Tenor; sure did put over some good entertainment and were called upon for several encores.

The program laid down by the commander for the coming year will surely put the American Legion on the top in the Ozark region; among the plans are, Encouragement of school activities; scholastic and athletic; community service to the community, the fostering of a home or traveling library; the instituting of a series of concerts and entertainments that may grow into the long sought for municipal Forum; and, the fostering of a militant Americanism that will mean service, patriotism and public spirit.

The speakers were Mayor J. E. Craig; "Mansfield The Ozark's Gem City"; Dr. A. J. Clark, President of the Mansfield Commercial Club, "Mansfield, It's Present and Future Possibilities"; O. B. Davis, editor of the local paper "The Mansfield Mirror What is it?"; Fred Wommack, of Seymour, Mo., and commander of the Legion Post there Comrades Our Mission"; Prof. H. J. Salisbury, "Education and Our Future Governors"; Alex Salsbury, "What is Life Should It Be Serious or Funny"; and J. Lon Dennis "What I Think of The American Legion." Mrs. J. E. Craig, wife of the Mayor, gave a very fine piano and solo selection. The program started with prayer, the singing of "America" Mrs. Dr. P. H. Riley accompanist and the pledge to the flag.

Ray J. Brown, a local attorney and the commander of the post is a native of Syracuse, N. Y., a graduate of the Albany Law School of Albany, N. Y., a veteran of the world war having served in Co. C, 109th M. G. Bn., 28th Division a Pennsylvania outfit. After coming to St. Louis last spring he drifted around until he and Miss Maud Harty of Newton, N. J., a teacher in the Cleveland High School of St. Louis, Mo., and, in the course of events they came to the City of Mansfield and the Ozark Region where they are building a law practice and a home and other things.

Mr. Brown said "I believe that the American Legion and the Ozark Mountain Region of Missouri and Arkansas are only in their infancy. Therefore, we have come here because we are confident that this region offers to young people of vision and energy and ambition, a future no other part of this country offers. We are here to stay and work and accomplish."

The Cheese Factory Project

The cheese factory project in Mansfield, got another boost up the ladder last Tuesday when W. A. Marlatt, of Los Angeles, Calif; paid to our little city his promised visit. He was here on ly a short time and conferred with a few of our business men, and laid his plans before them.

Mr. Marlatt has about 30 years experience as a cheese manufacturer in Wisconsin, where he was engaged in this business most of the time at Ft. Atkinson. For the past 7 years, however he has been in the west, most of the time at Los Angeles. He says when he quit business in Wisconsin, he really intended to go to Texas, to engage in the manufacture of cheese, but after he had looked over these different states and localities, he decided that on account of the droughts and hot winds the conditions were not so favorable as he had had them pictured, so his attention was turned to the Ozarks. He says here, conditions suit him much better, and that he thinks the Ozarks, as a dairy country which is conducive to cheese making and cheese factories, is far better in many respects than the state of Wisconsin. He mentioned a few of them, such as the mild climate and short winters, the cool crystal water, the high altitude and cool nights, and the wonderful manner in which grasses in this climate respond to a little barnyard manure.

Letters and recommendations Mr. Marlatt had from bankers and business men from Fort Atkinson, Los Angeles, and other places, convinced us that he is perfectly reliable and is financially able to carry out the project he is working on.

Mr. Marlatt is planning a series of cheese factories in the Ozarks of north Arkansas and south Missouri, and says he has picked Mansfield for one of the ideal locations, and that he is ready to put the factory here, if the farmers and business men want it, and will co operate with him. He wants not less than 300 cows, and that the people here put up sufficient funds to give them a controlling interest in the concern. So it is up to us, Mr. Farmer. If we want the cheese factory, we can get it. More detailed plans, and the benefits to the dairyman, in the sale of their whole milk and the price paid will be explained by your banker, or by Mr. Marlatt, on his return trip here, after the 300 or more cows have been arranged for.
